Multi-agency effort corrals suspected bank robber

Dale and Dawn Boatman, recent retirees from Knoxville, Tenn., got more than they bargained for Friday morning while on their way to Houston – they got caught in the middle of a high-speed, multi-police agency pursuit of a suspected bank robber, then had their tires blown out and forced off of I-10 just yards from the action.

"This was our first get-away (since we retired)," Dawn Boatman said.

Waveland Police Chief James Varnell and Gulfport Deputy Police Chief Steve Barnes make sure Dale and Dawn Boatman, recent retirees from Knoxville who got caught in the middle of the chase, are okay and ready to resume their trip to Houston.

It wasn't a get-away at all for the suspect, Louis Stephen Brown, 42, of Avondale, La. His vehicle was also forced off the road near mile marker 3 on the west-bound side of I-10 by the "stop sticks," tire-piercing spikes which officers of the Waveland Police Department threw in the road.

Brown was also being chased by officers from several other agencies for the alleged armed robbery of the AmSouth Bank on Hwy. 49 in Gulfport at about 10:39 Friday morning.

According to a press release issued by Gulfport Police Chief Wayne Payne, "Investigation at the scene revealed that a lone black male entered the bank, produced note stating he had a pistol and demanded money. The suspect then fled the bank with an undisclosed amount of money. While fleeing, a chemical dye packet planted in the money exploded, causing the robber to drop some of the money."

A witness reported the robbery to a Gulfport P.D. service technician, who

Lott, new NASA administrator visit Stennis during rocket test

New NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe timed his visit to Stennis Space Center just right on Thursday to push the button that began a 520-second (about 8 1/2 minute) engine test to certify a Pratt and Whitney High-Pressure Fuel Turbo Pump and various actuators and valves and evaluate various engine components and instrumentation to be used on upcoming Space Shuttle missions.

The next Space Shuttle mission is scheduled to take off on Thursday from Kennedy Space Center.

O'Keefe is on a tour to visit all the NASA centers in an effort to familiarize himself with the facilities. O'Keefe's appointment as administrator by President George W. Bush is the new director's first experience with NASA.

O'Keefe came to NASA from his position as deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget. He has a background as a professor of business and government policy

Pass dragged into Palace siege

BY ED LEPOMA

Staff Writer

Mayor Billy McDonald and the Pass Christian Board of Aldermen have now been dragged into the battle over the Palace in the Pass.

At Tuesday night's Board of Aldermen meeting, city attorney Malcolm Jones informed city officials opponents to the reception hall operating on Scenic Drive have officially filed appeal to Harrison County Circuit Court.

The opponents are asking the circuit court to reverse a unanimous decision made last month by the board, which ruled the Palace was lawfully operating and can continue hosting parties, wedding receptions and other activities at what once was the local VFW Hall, located at 401 E. Scenic Drive.

The decision by aldermen overturned a previous decision by the city Zoning Board of Adjustment, which ruled the non-conforming use - which allowed the local VFW to run a bar, bingo games and hold other activities at the building - did not transfer to the new owners.

The Bill of Exception filed in the First Judicial District of Circuit Court lists residents who claim they live in close proximity to the Palace, and are "aggrieved" by the actions of the mayor and board of aldermen. They include: William J. and Janet Heroman, Eric Lynch, Nicholas Augustus IV, Timothy and Ann Koerner, Hilda Williams and Barbara Scott.

The appellants in the latest court challenge do not include Scenic Drive residents Patricia Justice or Pat Mowrey, who once led the charge against the Palace.

Appellants are represented by Gulfport attorney Frank Logan, the same person who represented them at the city hall public hearing.

The Bill of Exception makes several claims, which were argued unsuccessfully by Logan during the public hearing. It alleges Palace owners, P.J. Hughes and her son Randy Tuggle, "misrepresented or misstated use of the building as a 'Single Family Dwelling' in their application for a building permit.

As a result, appellants contend the Certificate of Occupancy issued in November 2000 was for "a single dwelling," and the Palace was never subjected to fire, safety and other inspections that would have been required of a commercial venture.

The appellants also contend records of the Zoning Board of Adjustment will show that the VFW was granted nonconforming use to operate as a private club in an area where only single family homes are allowed, but the city's zoning ordinance does not allow private clubs and lodges to conduct commercial affairs.

"The Palace in the Pass nonconforming use is totally commercial," appellants argue. "The application for a Privilege License dated Oct. 30, 2000 ... is for use for receptions, parties and lists the business as a partnership. Applicants have done an end-run around the City Ordinance by representing to the city Permit Administrator that the proposed use will be a single family dwelling. Such illegal action should not be rewarded by this court," according to appellants.

The judge assigned to hear the appeal will have an extensive record to review.

A crowd of more than 100 packed the city hall chambers for the January public hearing. The majority favored the continued operation of the Palace in the Pass, and said the owners "saved and beautifully restored" what was once a deteriorating building in the midst of palatial homes.

The city hired a court reporter to take down the testimony at the hearing, and a record of those proceedings were later officially entered into the record, listing reasons why the board ruled in favor of Hughes and Tuggle, and allowed the business to continue to operate.

Stennis probe lands another defendant

BY ED LEPOMA

A 12th man has been indicted on federal charges of theft of government property at Stennis Space Center.

The FBI issued a warrant Wednesday for the arrest of Harrison Davis, who was indicted earlier this month by a federal grand jury. Davis, 51, turned himself into federal authorities Wednesday.

Davis and the 11 others were indicted after a three-year investigation into a kickback scam at Stennis. The others have pleaded guilty to charges of kickbacks of theft of government property, and have been sentenced to various terms.

U.S. Sen. Trent Lott, R-MS, shares a laugh Thursday with new NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe during a visit to Hancock County's Stennis Space Center.

and served for several years as Secretary of the Navy and as chief financial officer and comptroller for the Department of Defense.

He also served on the staff of the United States Senate Committee on Appropriations and the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee.

He was accompanied Thursday by Senate Minority Leader Trent Lott, an avid Stennis-supporter.

O'Keefe said that Stennis' role in the space program is secure and that up to 15 shuttle flights over the next three years are already scheduled.

The missions will be in support of the 15 nation International Space Station and the Hubble telescope project. O'Keefe also said that Stennis will have a place in new propulsion system technologies, the "next generation" of aerospace studies.

Lott spoke about the other benefits of space travel such as advances in the medical field, remote sensing technology, and earth sciences.

"Just getting into space is important," said Lott. "But what is just as important are the benefits we gain from research there and the benefits to society."

O'Keefe also said that

Stennis could be a center for research into defense against bio-terrorism.

On the issue of civilians going into space, O'Keefe had little to say.

"The standards of training are extremely high," said O'Keefe.

"Anyone going up would have to meet those standards."

Lott jokingly said there were several people he could think of that he would like to send into space, some with a "one-way ticket."

Correction

The two men arrested in the weekend slaying of Michele Garrell of Bay St. Louis did not live in the Signature Lake apartments in Pass Christian as reported in Thursday's Echo. Kevin Cameron Clark and his friend, Alton Legee Welch, lived in a house on Palmetto Cove, which is near the complex.

Feud on display over Pass position

BY ED LEPOMA
Staff Writer

A public feud has apparently developed between Pass Christian Billy McDonald and two recently elected city aldermen. And, Alderman Michael Antoine, who is in his third term representing Ward 3, has sided with the newcomers.

The differences of opinions were aired very publicly in Tuesday's recessed meeting of the mayor and Board of Aldermen. The battle lines formed over the search for a new public works director.

On instructions from the board, McDonald had already run an ad in local newspapers seeking applicants for the position. Vicki Goff, the city clerk, ran a classified ad she had run before for the same position. The last ad ran Jan. 22, and city attorney Malcolm Jones said the ad was fashioned from an ad run by the city of Ocean Springs for their public works position.

The job description required applicants to have a minimum high school diploma or its equivalent, with some college preferred. Also required was a minimum two years' experience in heavy equipment operations and the ability to effectively and efficiently supervise employees and interact with the public.

Applicants were also required to have "thorough knowledge of municipal regulatory environment, ability to work within the departmental budget, knowledgeable of normal and customary methods of municipal maintenance and possess the ability to oversee that all maintenance functions are safely and effectively carried out."

On the meeting agenda Tuesday night was a request for aldermen to consider adopting the job description for selecting the public works director agreed on at a Jan. 29 workshop. An accompanying request was to adopt a procedure for selecting the director, which was also agreed to at the Jan. 29 meeting. It was learned all five aldermen discussed the job description and selection procedure at a workshop, which was not attended the McDonald, who was in the hospital at the time. However, Ward 4 Alderman Donald Moore said nothing was agreed upon at the workshop.

At the Tuesday night meeting, both motions were sponsored by Howard McKissack, the retired businessman who defeated third-term incumbent Jeff Emerson for the Ward 1 seat. McKissack ran on promises he would only serve one four-year term and he won't take his salary of $8,400 a year.

Originally, McKissack's two-page job description for the public works director would have required applicants to have a Bachelor's degree in engineering or management.

"That ad is nothing like the ad we ran in the newspaper," McDonald told McKissack. From the job description, McDonald said it appeared the city was "seeking an M.I.T. graduate."

He said the city's Public Works Director was "more like a straw boss," and the annual salary of $29,000 would hardly attract candidates with engineering or management degrees.

McDonald also defended the Public Works duties now being handled by Mike Pavlisich, a seven-year veteran of the Department whom he appointed interim Director last October after 12-year-veteran Billy Billingsley resigned "for personal reasons."

McDonald claimed using McKissack's job description, Pavlisich would not be qualified to apply for the permanent position.

Moore said he had already expressed his concerns about creating any new positions, and he thought the Mayor should be the one to make the recommendation for the position. Antoine came to the defense of McKissack. He said it's time the city upgraded the position of public works director, since the city now spends thousand of dollars each year for engineering consultants called in for harbor projects, drainage improvements, emergency situations and other problems. He said the salary for the position should be higher than $29,000, and he said the new director could also take over the city's water department.

"I don't think we need someone with an engineering degree to manage the (water) billing," said Moore. He said people with engineering or management degrees wouldn't work for less than $40,000 a year.

Antoine disagreed, saying he felt there were a lot of voting retirees available in the work force and others who have been laid off from job who might be interested in the position. He said McDonald already had a number of applicants on file.

Alderman-at-large Leo "Chipper" McDermott sided with the mayor and Moore. He said the late James "Smokey" Welch, who served many years as the city's public works director and was viewed as an expert on the city's infrastructure wouldn't qualify under McKissack's job description.

McKissack said he did not know in advance that McDonald had problems with the job description, but he and Antoine agreed to relax the requirements. The new job description agreed upon would not require an engineering or management degree, but would require a high school diploma, with three or more years of public works experience and at least two years of management experience.

Joe Piernas, the alderman who won the Ward 2 position after veteran Alderman Margaret Jean Kalif decided not to seek re-election, remained silent during most of the debate, but he sided with McKissack and Antoine on the wording of the job description, and the motion passed 3-2, with McDermott and Moore voting against it.

After that action, all five aldermen approved McKissack's motion on how the city would go about selecting candidates to interview. Under the plan, the mayor and each alderman would each select three candidates, then a final three candidates would be considered by the board.

McDonald paid little attention to how candidates would be selected. He announced he planned to veto the action of the board regarding the job description and the selection process.

The mayor must wait until aldermen approve the minutes from the recessed meeting at the board's March 5 meeting. Then, he has 10 days to issue a veto. It will take a vote of four of the five aldermen to overturn the Mayor's veto.

Later on in the meeting, Antoine grilled city Comptroller Janet Dudding on the length of time it is taking to reconcile billing problems within the Utility Department.

The city purchased new software last year. Both the Utility Department, and the assistant city clerk had worked on the software transition, but had not yet finished, and the Board asked Dudding to take over the project last January.

The city hired a temporary employee to begin imputing data from almost 4,000 accounts into a computer stationed in her office. She told Antoine she "invited" the three Utility Department employees to train on the computer, but none of them have come.

"You would think we could hire someone to do it and be done with it," said Antoine. Under questioning by Antoine, Dudding said she hoped the new billing system could be completed within the next three to four months. McKissack said he hoped the mayor would soon direct the water department personnel to begin training on the software, since they are the ones who will be working with it on a daily basis.

Waveland resident Karen Harvill will travel to Cheltenham, England with internationally-renowned photographer and lifelong friend Florine Duffield next month to cover the Cheltenham Festival and Gold Cup National Hunt Horse Race event, from a woman's perspective.

Duffield will photograph the event and Harvill will conduct interviews, highlighting the achievements of the women of Hunt Racing, a traditionally male-dominated sport.

The three-day festival will feature 20 races over a three-and-a-quarter-mile all-terrain track with 22 jumps. The average attendance of 150,000 people per day ranges in scope from Irish horse race enthusiasts to the British elite and is a social event of the season as well as the "super bowl" of the National Hunt Calendar. The fact that one of the races is named the "Queen Mother Champion Race" says it all, Harvill said.

Cross-country racing – also known as steeple chase – has its origins in Europe. The first such recorded race took place in Ireland in 1752 when an O'Callaghan and a Blake raced four-and-a-half miles from Butevant Church to St. Mary's in Doneraile. Because church steeples were the most prominent landmarks on the landscape, steeples were used to mark race points.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Thursday was a very busy day at the John C. Stennis Space Center with the visit by NASA's new Administrator Sean O'Keefe.

O'Keefe, who succeeded Mississippi native Daniel Goldman as NASA's Administrator, is no stranger to the area, since he is a native of New Orleans and has family residing in Slidell.

The new administrator came on board in December, and has been touring the many NASA installations across the country.

I attended the Partners in Stennis Luncheon for O'Keefe at Stennis Thursday and he offered great praises for the group, which is once again headed up by president Dave Treutel, Jr., of Bay St. Louis.

Partners in Stennis is in its seventh year and Dave was the first president.

Dave and Irma Cry of Slidell, both original members, told O'Keefe about the many projects the organization has been involved in helping Stennis.

O'Keefe, like many others, is very impressed by Partners in Stennis, as its membership even crosses state lines - it involves folks from Hancock, Harrison, and Pearl River counties and St. Tammany Parish.

The mission of Partners for Stennis is to promote the economic, technical and academic growth and stability of the John C. Stennis Space Center through projects which insure that government decision makers, business interests, and interested citizens know of the value and importance of the center.

Partners in Stennis came about as a result of mutual concerns by business and community leaders from both Mississippi and Louisiana to support and enhance the development of numerous agencies and programs located at Stennis. The association is also designed to serve as a resource group to those businesses that may have the potential to relocate to the space center.

O'Keefe did indicate that even with NASA's belt-tightening, Stennis will not have a reduction in its workload. Stennis will stay busy to complete work needed to complete the several missions to the International Space Station.

Forest fires are once again a threat to our area, as just this past week more than 685 acres of woods have been destroyed.

I realize that it has been a wet winter, but recent dry conditions along with strong winds play havoc with wild fires.

Hancock County Forester Mark Jamieson reports that fires are occurring at a rate of 3 to 5 a day and many are apparently started by arsonists.

Jamieson says about 90% of the wild fires are started by arsonists.

Fighting a forest fire in strong windy conditions like the one last week is a very dangerous situation for firefighters.

Arson of woods in Mississippi is a very serious violation and the Forestry Commission offers a $500 award for the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for any arson fire.

If convicted, a person could face a sentence of two years in state penitentiary and/or a $1,000 fine.

Not only are the animals threatened and woods destroyed by wild fires, but residences and businesses are in danger of being destroyed.

Having been a volunteer firefighter in my younger years in Waveland and even before then, fighting woods fires that threatened our residence and neighbors, was not a joyful chore. I can

Improving education, strengthening defense

Recently, President Bush officially submitted his budget proposal for Fiscal Year 2003. Overall, it is a budget which is good for America and particularly good for Mississippi - providing billions of dollars to be spent in our state, notably on two items for which President Bush and I share a mutual resolve - improving education and strengthening defense.

Improving Education: For years, liberals have paid lip service to local educators, all the while advancing failed federal intrusions into our local schools.

President Bush, however, brought to Washington a proven track record of highly successful education reforms enacted while he was Texas Governor.

From the Senate

These innovative plans are rooted in a respect for the traditional view of local parents, teachers and school administrators as America's primary educators.

Many of these broad-based solutions were recently adopted when the Senate and House enacted the most dramatic federal education reform in 33 years - the appropriately titled No Child Left Behind Act. It is quite an accomplishment for a President barely into his first term.

Though the bill did not contain everything I would have preferred, when the dust cleared Mississippi's children fared very well.

The act increases federal education funding for our state to more than $553 million - nearly $49 million more than last year.

The act also increases Title I funding by more than $13 million, provides more than $11 million in funding for reading emphasis, sets aside more than $40 million for teacher training and retention, provides $5.3 million to ensure safe and drug-free schools, grants $3.9 million for after-school activities and $5.2 million for school and teacher assessment.

These reforms are good news for more than 500,000 students, 875 public schools and 30,000 Mississippi teachers.

For our university students, the act further provides an estimated $156 ent unless a doctor certifies the patient needs additional medicine.

We reduced the dispensing fee for drugs by a dollar for each new prescription or refill and mandated the use of generic drugs, among other things.

But Medicaid was not all we handled this week, however. With a Thursday deadline for bills that originated in the Senate, we had to work long hours to make sure good legislation survived.

We approved a bill to allow citizens to put their name and phone number on a "no call" list to help cut down on the number of calls consumers get from telemarketers. In law enforcement we approved a measure to increase the number of Highway Patrol troopers we can put on the highways and we attempted to help families by allowing judges to require counseling for families before they grant a divorce when children are involved.

Also, in light of some current events, we approved a bill that says anyone convicted of stealing public funds be subjected to a minimum of one year in prison.

It has happened in the past that people convicted of such offense were sentenced to only probation and actually never served a single day in jail.

In an effort to save local government a little money, we approved a bill that allows election commissioners to declare a winner in any election where only one person qualifies as a candidate for each office.

This does not happen often but does occasionally happen, and there is no sense spending money on an election in that event.

As you probably know, our Medicaid program has run up a substantial deficit - around $150 million for this fiscal year - and was in real danger of running out of money by the end of the month.

If the program had been allowed to run out of money, some services to our elderly and disabled would have been stopped. We simply could not allow this to happen.

The money we draw from the trust fund will be paid back in any year in which the general fund revenues grow by more than 5%. The fund currently has about $720 million.

In addition, we have made some small revisions in the cost to consumers to reduce the deficit. There we had to reduce the number of prescriptions per month from 10 to seven per recipient.

TEN YEARS AGO

January 23, 1992 – Board of Supervisors president Mike Ladner has been added a new hat to his collection – that of Veterans Service Officer.

Ladner is filling the post vacated by Paul Moody earlier this month, until the seven local service organizations involved in selecting a replacement can make a recommendation to the board of supervisors. Ladner once served as Veterans Service Officer for over seven years.

BAY HIGH seniors Jamie Kingston, son of Paul W. Kingston of Sheridan, Ark., and Mrs. Janice L. Drolls of Bay St. Louis, and Patsy Weems, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Weems of Bay St. Louis, were elected by the student body as Mr. and Miss Bay High this year.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

January 24, 1982 – The residents of four homes located on Harrison Road near the Jourdan River were left without an entrance Thursday night when fence posts were installed in the road.

Walter Gex, attorney for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, said Friday, "I cannot understand how this thing got this far. I advised the property owner to have the fence posts removed until this can be discussed at the next meet-

January 25, 1962 – Total assets of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association, Hancock County's oldest financial institution, increased better than half a million dollars during 1961, P.J. Treutel, president, told the annual shareholders' meeting last Wednesday during which officers and directors were elected.

He noted that both as to liquidity and reserves the association has maintained a position well above the requirements of the Federal Home Loan Bank and the Federal Savings and Loan Corporation.

– St. Stanislaus rode the hot shooting right arms of forward Mike Gore and center Waymon Carr Saturday night for a 63-55 win over Bay High Tigers in the annual battle of Bay St. Louis' two high schools Saturday night in Stanislaus gym.

Bay High's Charles Bennett hit with a long one-hander with one second remaining to give the Tiger junior varsity a 35-33 victory over the Rock JV's in a preliminary game.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

February 1, 1952 – Truman Schultz and Roger Heitzmann of Bay St. Louis won in the State Golden Gloves championship held in Jackson last Tuesday.

Schultz, who won in the 195-pound heavyweight division, defeated Gilbert Crumsby of Jackson. As in Hattiesburg, Schultz was awarded the sportsmanship trophy.

Heitzmann, who was entered in the 146-pound novice welterweight division, won over Jim Landrum, tournament favorite, who had won three previous fights by knockout.

Schultz won his fight with a knockout in 1:20 of the first round. Both of Bay St. Louis' champions will represent Mississippi at Memphis in the Southeastern Golden Gloves tournament Feb. 5, 6 and 7. The winners of these bouts will go to Chicago the first week in March.

SIXTY YEARS AGO

January 30, 1942 – Bay St. Louis has missed the number of stalwart soldier lads who were camped here for some time and whose presence we had become accustomed to.

The sights of the boys walking their posts at the railroad span and before the highway bridge, and the heavy army trucks traveling to and from the camp conveying soldiers to and from their watches was a familiar one.

However, a small group of soldiers is still being maintained as a guard for the bridges over the Pearl River, the Rigolets and several other waterways along the highway. These are stationed near Pearlington and Logtown.

Lott -- 2003 budget million – $10 million more than last year – for Pell Grant funding which will ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Mississippi students.

Strengthening Defense: I am proud to have helped begin a renewed commitment to funding defense several years ago by shepherding a historic pay raise for our men and women in uniform.

Today, President Bush continues this commitment by providing another pay raise for our military, and by funding weapons programs and equipment upgrades that are much needed for a nation at war with terrorists.

As many of you know, when America goes to war, Mississippians – both military and civilian – are front and center. Our military bases and defense contractors are among the world's best, and together they comprise a huge slice of Mississippi's economy.

This is why I am very pleased that the President has joined me in providing more than $30 million to upgrade family housing at Keesler Air Force Base, Columbus Air Force Base and Naval Air Station Meridian.

These quality-of-life upgrades, contained in the Bush budget, are an essential part of improving military recruitment and retention.

They will join $60 million in upgrades and new construction funds for the bases themselves specifically for Gulfport's Seabee Base, Naval Station Pascagoula, Keesler and Jackson's National Guard facilities.

Better pay, better equipment and better living conditions are all part of enhancing America's overall military readiness, which is greatly needed as our uniformed personnel face ever increasing, ever-changing threats to our national security.

The budget also funds Mississippi defense production totaling more than $5 billion now being performed by our state's workers at places like Pascagoula's Ingalls Shipbuilding, Raytheon of Forest and Lockheed Martin of Meridian.

When we strengthen our education and defense systems we strengthen America. Though the two may seem far apart, these tasks are two of government's primary duties.

It is indeed refreshing to know we now have a man in the White House passionately and sincerely committed to both.

Biological threat detection system enhanced by NASA research

Research funded by NASA at Stennis Space Center and conducted by the University of New Mexico Earth Data Analysis Center (EDAC) could soon result in an enhanced version of a reporting system that allows health-care professionals to recognize and react swiftly to biological threats.

The Rapid Syndrome Validation Project (RSVP) is a real-time syndrome monitoring system developed by Sandia National Laboratories (SNL), Albuquerque, N.M., to report and analyze symptoms and track disease outbreaks.

By analyzing real-time health information such as the frequency, chronology and geography of reported symptoms, medical personnel can be alerted to non-specific symptoms that could indicate a biological threat.

The RSVP system tracks symptoms, not just confirmed diagnoses, so unusual symptoms can serve as an immediate warning.

Isolated incidents of fever and malaise, for example, might seem insignificant; a coordinated analysis of those symptoms according to time, location, and frequency, however, could indicate an infectious disease event in progress.

NASA's role in the project has been to facilitate the research by UNM EDAC, a NASA Affiliated Research Center (ARC), to evaluate the usefulness of remote sensing data for analysis of disease transmission and origin.

In collaboration with SNL, UNM EDAC is working to add geospatial reporting capabilities to the system. This feature will provide geospatial data, including water conditions, vegetation and wildlife features, to be evaluated in coordination with those analytical features already in place.

The RSVP ARC project is an example of participating at a very early stage of development of an important disease surveillance system which is national in scope," said Michael Inglis of UNM EDAC.

NASA's ARC Program is focused on the development of remote sensing applications to improve decision-making capabilities for critical areas such as environmental assessment, resource management, community growth and infrastructure, and disaster management.

Through innovative partnerships with leading universities, representatives from state, local, regional, tribal and commercial interests can participate in the development of remote sensing applications that ultimately provide an operational capability to the respective user community.

"The RSVP is a good example of a successful ARC project that could yield a valuable product," said

Anne Peek, NASA's Earth Science Applications Directorate at Stennis and ARC program manager.

The RSVP system is operational at the University of New Mexico Medical Center, the New Mexico Department of Health, and several other New Mexico sites. Sandia Laboratories manufactured the database, which is planned for international use.

NOTICE OF THE AVAILABILITY OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT

The USDA, Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from Southern Regional Wastewater Management District. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, the Rural Utilities Service has prepared an Environmental Assessment that evaluated the potential environmental effects and consequences of the proposed project. This notice announces the availability of the Environmental Assessment for public review and comment.

The proposed project consists of constructing 85,000 L. F. of PVC Forced Main sewer line from Pearlington Mississippi to Waveland Mississippi. This will allow Southern Regional Wastewater Management District to treat sewage collected from the town of Pearlington. An alternative to the proposed project would be to take, "No Action." Taking - "No Action" will allow continued pollution and health hazards associated with the presently used individual septic systems.

Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for review at the Rural Development Office, 132 Mayfair Rd. Hattiesburg, Mississippi. For further information contact Robert W. Windham, Rural Development Specialist, at 601-261-3293. Any person interested in commenting on this proposed project should submit comments to the address above by March 10, 2002.

Burglary, vandalism, flight, land 2 juveniles in detention

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Publisher Emeritus

Two juveniles were detained Friday night and are charged with burglary of a business, auto burglary, malicious mischief, in addition to resisting arrest by flight, according to Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Rita Blaize-Watson.

Around 8 p.m. Friday, D&D Wrecker Service on Highway 603 was burglarized.

"Money and several items were taken from the business and approximately 21 vehicles on the property were vandalized and some burglarized," Blaize-Watson said.

The two juvenile suspects were detained after a chase through the woods and residential areas of Shoreline Park by officers and concerned citizens, Blaize-Watson said.

Sheriff's Deputy Lt. Tim Broder said, "We do not encourage citizens to get involved in cases like this, but, the suspects may not have been apprehended until later if citizens hadn't assisted deputies, who were chasing the juveniles on foot."

Vandalism to the vehicles included, broken windows, slashed tires and other damages and there appears to be several thousand dollars' worth of damages, Blaize-Watson said.

"Several items and some money was recovered in addition to the tools used to do most of the damage to the vehicles and forced entry into the business," she said. "The two juveniles are lodged in detention and are awaiting a hearing sometime next week."

GRPC dismisses Taylor, Haas

BY ED LEPOMA

Staff Writer

The Gulf Regional Planning Commission, which oversees and has input into numerous projects along the Gulf Coast, has fired its director and longtime legal counsel.

The commission voted 11-4 Wednesday to fire Executive Director Jeff Taylor and its attorney, Mike Haas of Bay St. Louis, who had advised the agency since it began operations in 1964. The firings came despite a letter of support of Taylor from the Harrison County Council of Governments. Kathy Terry, GRPC's financial officer, will serve as interim director, according to commission President Michelle Bishop.

Taylor had been put on paid administrative leave on Dec. 19 shortly after an audit conducted by the Mississippi Department of Transportation found the GRPC had problems with its bookkeeping. The commission, which manages the Coast's long-range transportation planning, receives about 90 percent of its funding from MDOT and from federal grants.

The audit disclosed the commission continued to pay rent on a building it paid off in 1991. The building houses offices of the Gulf Regional Economic Development Commission, a non-profit organization that is an off-shoot of GRPC. The federal government had ruled in 1995 that an organization cannot pay itself rent. After the audit, MDOT withheld a total $32,785 in reimbursements to the commission because of accounting errors found last year.

GE subcontractors lay off 22

BY ED LEPOMA

Staff Writer

Two GE subcontractors at the Port Bienville Industrial Park have laid off a total 22 workers due to reduced global demand for engineering thermoplastics.

Hal Walters, Director of Hancock County's Port and Harbor Commission, confirmed the layoffs Friday. He said WSI, which handles warehousing, packaging and distribution at the plant, will lay off 11; and J.E. Merit, which provides maintenance and security, will lay off 11 others.

GE spokesman, Jim Enloe, said thermoplastics sales are down approximately 30 percent from a year ago.

"Since the beginning of the third quarter last year, we've seen a significant softening in global demand for our product," said Enloe. It's affected the amount of work we need to do at the site. As a result, the entire site has been working together to reduce costs."

Enloe said no GE employees were impacted to date, but added, "We are very concerned about the overall shape of the economy and what this means for sales."

Over the past two years the number of GE employees and subcontract employees at Port Bienville has dropped by about 50 percent, bringing the total work force at Port Bienville to fewer than 250, Enloe said. He said that only five of the 60 laid off over the past two years were GE employees. GE Plastics has been at Port Bienville for more than 20 years.

Bay bridge lights going back up

BY ED LEPOMA

Staff Writer

The flashing yellow lights are going back up on the bridge over the Bay of St. Louis.

State Rep. J.P. Comprett took time out from the legislative session in Jackson to call with the news.

Comprett and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors had asked the Mississippi Department of Transportation to reinstall the warning lights on the west side of the bridge to warn motorists there is a stop light at the end of the Bay-side of the bridge.

Comprett said MDOT Executive Director Larry L. "Butch" Brown said the new flashing lights should be back up by the first week of March.

"I have worked closely with MDOT on this project, and am very pleased the agency has been able to move so quickly on this much-needed safety improvement," said Comprett.

He said the flashing lights were needed because foggy conditions in the area sometimes decrease the visibility of the existing traffic signal at the end of the bridge.

"I am confident this effort will save lives by giving motorists more warning of a potential stop condition ahead," said Comprett.

According to MDOT, the yellow flashing lights are designed to flash continually and thus will be effective during inclement weather conditions and at night. The lights and sign will be mounted on the Bay St. Louis bridge rail approximately 1,000 feet from the west end of the bridge.

Hancock High announces STAR student and teacher

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

Karolina Sarnowska, daughter of Krzysztof and Beata Sarnowska of Diamondhead, has been named as Hancock High School's Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (STAR) Student for the 2001-2002 school year by the Mississippi Economic Council's M.B. Swayze Educational Foundation, sponsor of the STAR Program. STAR Students are selected on the basis of academic excellence, American College Test scores, and scholastic averages.

Each STAR Student is asked to designate a STAR Teacher, the classroom teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement.

Sarnowska designated Brian Fitch, Hancock High School science instructor, as the STAR Teacher. Fitch has been involved in education for 10 years with all years of service in the Hancock County School District. He is also a gifted musician.

All 500-plus STAR Students and STAR Teachers will receive recognition from the MEC's Swayze Foundation at the 35th annual Education Celebration on April 26 where the top 20 STAR Students and their STAR Teachers will be presented scholarship awards.

By the time Brown was forced off the road, he was being chased by officers from the Gulfport, Bay St. Louis and Waveland police departments, the Harrison and Hancock sheriff's departments, the Mississippi Highway Patrol and the Mississippi Public Service Commission.

"I never saw so many people after one person in all my life," Boatman said at the scene Friday, shortly after Brown was apprehended. "He jumped out and just started running fast."

Officers chased the suspect into the woods, where they caught him, and transported him to the Harrison County Adult Detention Center. As of press time Saturday, he was still being held there on $250,000 bond.

Court earlier this month by attorney Russell S. Gill on behalf of William A. Kolstad and Lori Williams, of Bay St. Louis.

The suit alleges on the evening of Sunday, Feb. 11, 2001, at about 10:52 p.m., the couple was in a truck going through the intersection of Hancock drive and W. Green Road.

"Robert B. McMillian failed to stop at the intersection because the stop sign was missing," the suit charges. The suit says McMillian's vehicle struck the right side cab of the truck bed, causing the vehicle to spin 360 degrees and come to a rest in the ditch.

"Defendants (the county)

knew or should have known that the negligently-maintained intersection created an unreasonable risk of harm to travelers at said intersection," the suit alleges. The plaintiffs are asking the court to decide punitive and compensatory damages, claiming past and future pain, loss of income and property damage.

was taken to Memorial Hospital at Gulfport.

Hargrove said the Whites were in a pickup truck and pulled from the median to approach the eastbound lanes of I-10.

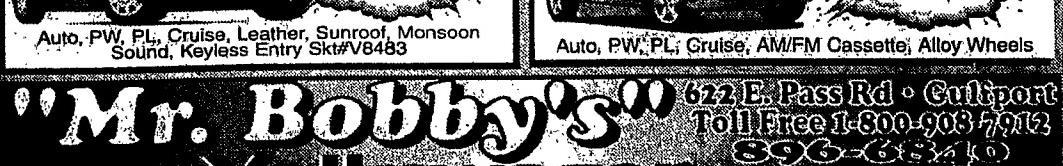

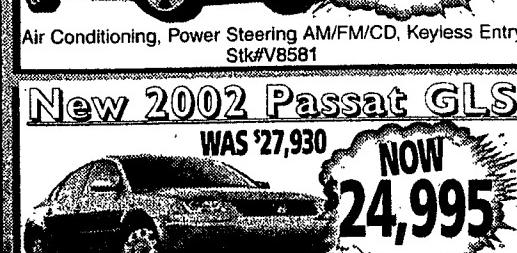

The White's pickup was hit by a Chevrolet Cavalier, causing the vehicle to hit the exit sign and flip upside down.

Rescue workers had to use the "jaws of life" to remove the Whites from the truck, Hargrove said.

Three others injured in the accident, who were not immediately identified, were taken to Garden Park Medical Center in Gulfport.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol is investigating the accident.

IN MEMORY OF MY DAUGHTER SHANNON HARTER
 MAY 17, 1983 - AUG 27, 2001

My beautiful daughter, 6 months have gone by but it seems like just yesterday. Your death has changed so many lives. You are sadly missed and deeply loved by all of your family and friends. It will never be the same without you in our lives. You will always be in our hearts and forever in our memories.

I love you my child
 With all of my heart
 I can't bear the pain,
 Since we are apart

I miss your smile,
 Your beautiful face
 Your eyes so blue,
 So full of grace

I miss your laughter,
 Your spirit so free,
 Your were too young,
 How could this be

I think about you,
 Day and night
 I can't believe this,
 It's just not right

So full of life.
 You were so young
 How could he do this,
 Your life just begun

I want her home. Right here with me Oh my God! Why can't you see?

I cry for her,
 I reach for her
 I long to hold her close to me

I hear her voice,
 She comes to me,
 But only for a moment,
 In my dream

At 11:05p.m. on Aug 29, 2001 there were 4 knocks on the door. They had come to tell us they had found our daughter. We were unable to see her. She had been violently murdered by the hands of her estranged boyfriend.

Our family was close,
 Just like a ring
 That has been broken.
 How could that be?

I tried to protect you,
 How could I know
 Your life would be ended.
 I did not know

You grew up too fast,
 You were only 18
 What you wanted from life,
 Was your own family

We searched for you,
 Both day and night
 I felt your pain,
 Deep down inside

2 days went by,
 Without a clue
 I held on hoping that,
 We would soon find you

As the planes flew over,
 The helicopter went by
 I stared in the woods,
 And began to cry

The dogs came in,
 As the search party grew
 They all cared deeply,
 Looking for you

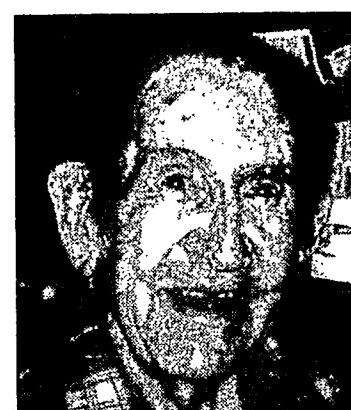

Your family came in,
 To wait for you
 Hoping and praying,
 Just to hear from you

She's up there in heaven
 looking down on me
 "Ne" will always be, a guardian angel to me.

My Sister Shannon Known as "Ne" to Me.
 by Melissa Adams

You were there when I came, into the world
 As Proud of me, as a mom would be.

You fed me, you loved me and you cared for me.
 You helped teach me to walk and helped teach me to talk

You promised always to be there for me.
 Even tho you left, and went on your own

You were never far away from home.
 You have always called home, to talk to me

You even come visit, to play with me.
 But now I wonder "Where can you be"

I see your pictures, I cry for you
 It's hard for me, I'm only 2.

Mom picks me up and tries to explain
 Even tho "Ne" is gone, she's not in pain

She picks up an angel and shows it to me and says this is what "Ne", will always be

She's up there in heaven looking down on me
 "Ne" will always be, a guardian angel to me.

Survivors include daughters Shelia Darlene Zebedee of Houston and Janis W. Quinn of Hancock County; brother Jesse Wynn Jr. of Washington, N.C.; five grandchildren; and one great-grandchild. Services will be at a later date.

Athletes abound on hardwood for the Pass Pirates in '02

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Staff Writer

This is the third part in a five-part series that featured the basketball teams of SSC, OLA, Bay High, Hancock, and Pass Christian.

Like the Hancock Hawks, the Pass Christian Pirates stepped up in classification at the beginning of the 2001-02 school year. And, like the Hawks, the Pirates seemed to not have skipped a beat in their prowess on the field of competition.

The success on the gridiron has carried over onto the hardwood. The Pirates finished the season with a 24-7 record. The number one seeded Pirates were ousted from the Division 8 Class 4A tournament in Gautier on Thursday, February 14, by the Vancleave Bulldogs 65-52.

Kalvin Woods, Richard Dedeaux, Rueben Nichols, Garland Stewart, and Chad Musgrove have been the consistent starting lineup for Buddy Kennedy's Pirates.

Woods is being the complete player averaging 17.8 points, 5 assists, and 4.7 steals per game for the Pirates. Nichols, Stewart, and Musgrove round out the team's leading scorers with 11.1, 10.4, and 10.2 points per game.

While Dedeaux doesn't appear high in the box score, Kennedy calls him the glue that holds the team together. Kennedy stated, "Richard Dedeaux is a tremendous leader. He leads by his example on the court but is also a vocal leader."

The Pirates go 9 to 10 players deep on the bench each game. This asset gave the Pirates an advantage over many of their opponents who aren't that fortunate. The Pirates swept traditional 4A power St. Stanislaus this season to claim the #1 seed in the division tournament. The second game with SSC is one that Kennedy calls "a huge win."

The second game between the Rocks and the Pirates determined first place in the division. The Pirates responded in athletic fashion and claimed the win.

Another key win during their stellar 2001-02 run was the win over long-time 5A power Harrison Central in Hoops Fest 2002. The Pirates didn't back down from the Red Rebels and claimed the win.

their 6-10 Prep All-American center Byron Sanders. Instead, the Pirates went on and proved why they have some of the best athletes on the court in Mississippi.

Kennedy summed up, "This team has as strong a will to compete and win as any I have ever been around. They put their all on the court each night. The team always comes ready to play. Even though we moved up in classification, we feel that we can compete with anyone on the Coast."

The Pirates have proven themselves worthy of playing anyone, anywhere. Following the Harrison Central win, the Pirates traveled to "The Bert" to tangle with the Admirals. The Pirates lost by two points to undefeated and top-ranked Gulfport in the waning seconds of the game.

While several Pirates will move on with graduation in the spring, Kennedy feels that his younger players will be able to step in and perform. The Pirates are no longer unknown and their secret is out. In a simple word - athlete! Congratulations, Pirates!

The Lady Pirates ended their 2001-02 season with a devastating loss to the Lady Hornets of East Central on Tuesday, February 12, in the division tournament. The loss dropped the Lady Pirates to 11-17 on the season. Lady Pirate head coach David McKay commented, "The year proved to be somewhat disappointing. But, we have some younger players coming up from a very fine ninth grade team that will contribute to our program. We lose two seniors in Ashley Dedeaux and Vionka Frederick. These seniors will be missed for their contributions to our program."

The Lady Pirates will not only get the benefit of the younger players moving up, but their three leading scorers are returning, as well.

Kenyetta Woods, Deana Ladner, and Charleda Meloncon all will return to shoot the rock for Pass Christian in 2003.

While Pass Christian did not finish the way they would have liked to, the Lady Pirates will return more firepower in 2003.

With all the positives, the Lady Pirates can't help but be excited about next season.

Tigers on tear at the diamond

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Bay High baseball team is off to a fast start this spring with a record of 2-1. The Tigers have beaten Pass Christian and Hancock. The only loss is to Ocean Springs.

Bay blasted the Pirates 17-1 on February 16. B.J. Corr led the Tigers at the plate with a homeroon and 3 RBIs. Jacob Higdon and Skip Ladner each had two hits in the game. Adam Barrett and Ladner added 3 RBIs and 2 RBIs, respectively, in the game. Brandon Strong was the winning pitcher.

The Tigers also knocked off the Hancock Hawks 12-2 on Tuesday, February 19. Brandon Strong had 3 RBIs and scored three times in the game. Adam Barrett, Guy Alleman, and Brandon Slade all had multiple hits in the game for Bay High. Barrett and Slade each tallied 2 RBIs in the contest. Aaron Morris was the winning pitcher.

The only loss this season for Bay High has been an 8-2 decision to Ocean Springs where the Tigers committed five errors.

The Hancock Hawks defeated the Ocean Springs Greyhounds 10-9 in the finals of the Bay High Tournament on Saturday, Feb. 16.

James Moran knocked in 3 RBIs and was the winning pitcher in the finals. He was named the tournament MVP.

Zack Zulli added two hits, scored three runs, and stole three bases to lead the Hawks on the basepaths.

In recent hockey action, the Sea Wolves have gone on a tear to move up to the third place in the Southwest Division standings as the final stretch draws near.

On Tuesday, Feb. 19, the Sea Wolves handed the Jackson Bandits a 6-4 loss. Dave Paradise tallied a hat trick on the ice and Steffon Walby scored five points in the game.

On Wednesday, Feb. 20, the Sea Wolves pulled some magic out on the Mobile Mystiks for the 2-1 win. Walby scored his ECHL's league leading 32nd goal of the season.

The shot was the game-winner for the Sea Wolves as they improved to 30-21-3 on the season.

Expo to present 'Great American Wild Turkey Display' March 1-3

The third annual Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Expo will be held on March 1-3 at the Washington County Convention Center in Greenville.

The Expo, hosted by Wildlife Mississippi, is the largest of its kind in the state.

For the past several years, record book whitetail deer displays have lured thousands of hunters and their families to the Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Expo. This year the wild turkey becomes the focus of the Expo.

At the Expo will be the "Great American Wild Turkey Display," the world's only display of wild turkeys. With the push of a button, one can listen to the calls made by each species. This is the first time this display has been shown in Mississippi and only the second time it has been displayed in the South.

"It is something I've wanted to do for a long time and it's never been done before," said Joe Hall, the creator of the display.

Most people only see the turkeys they've shot or in pictures. But with this display, they are able to compare the Eastern, Osceola, Rio Grande, Merriam's, Gould's and the Ocellated, side by side, and see how different they really are."

Each diorama is composed of a strutting tom accompanied by its mate.

A large background photograph and plants depict the terrain indicative of each bird's habitat complete the exhibit. A range map and information on each subspecies add to the exhibit.

If you don't have the opportunity to see it the week before the Expo at the 26th Annual National Wild Turkey Convention and Sport Show in Charlotte, North Carolina, you can see it in Greenville on March 1-3.

Show hours are: March 1, Friday, 3 pm - 9 pm; March 2, Saturday, 10 am - 8 pm; March 3, Sunday, 12 pm - 5 pm. Admission is: under 6 - free; 6 to 12 - $4; adults - $6. Anyone bringing a canned food to the Expo for Wildlife Mississippi's "Hunt Against Hunger" program can receive $1 off the admission price (limit one per attendee). All canned goods will be donated to needy families.

Former SSC mentor Kenson named new coach at PJP

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Staff Writer

Former St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws head football coach Dave Kenson has been named the new head football coach at Pope John Paul II High School in Slidell. Pope John Paul II is a Class 2A school.

Kenson stated, "This is a really great opportunity for me. I will be taking over a program that will have several key players returning. The coach that was there was a strong fundamentals coach. They had a good football team last season and just barely missed the playoffs. I have met with the team and they seem to be very hungry and aggressive players. All around it is just a very good opportunity."

Kenson stated that many of the football players are currently on the PJP power-lifting team which will compete in the state championship meet on Saturday,

February 23. Sources say that PJP has a very good chance at winning their classification in the state meet. Kenson said he will try to run the same offensive scheme that he ran at SSC which was a wide-open aerial attack. The Jaguars will return their quarterback, Joe Dunbar (5-11, 175), next season. Kenson commented, "He has nice size and is athletic. While they did not throw the ball too much last season, he has the tools to develop into a fine passing quarterback.

"We will also throw in some option packages like we did at SSC with former record-setting quarterback Jason Santiago and running back Kris Cannon."

The school will play the schedule that is in place which will include seven home games and possibly an eighth one. In the spring, Kenson will also coach the golf team. His teaching duties will be physical education classes. Kenson spent the past five seasons at SSC where he led the Rocks to a three consecutive winning seasons and a trip to the state playoffs in 1998. He compiled a 24-31 record while at SSC. During his tenure at SSC, Kenson coached some SSC's finest gridiron players in Kris Cannon, Stephen Peterman, Jason Santiago, Cameron Byrne, Roger Ridgeway, Dmitri Sofianos, Grady and Gabe Willis, Hunter Dawkins, and Neil Favre.

Kenson's coaching career spans 24 years. He first coached as an assistant at the University of Cincinnati, where he played his collegiate ball. He has coached at North College Hill High School in Cincinnati, The Bolles School in Jacksonville, Fletcher High School in Neptune Beach, Florida, and Bishop Kenny High School in Jacksonville.

Facts About The BIBLE
BY JOHN LEHTI

THE FORGOTTEN ONES

THE STORY OF ABRAHAM'S WIFE, SARAH, AND HIS BELOVED SON ISAAC, IS WELL RECORDED—AS IS THAT OF HAGAR, WHO BORE ABRAHAM'S FIRST SON, ISHMAEL, BUT LITTLE IS SAID OF THE WIFE THAT ABRAHAM TOOK AFTER SARAH'S DEATH, KETURAH. THIS FINE WOMAN SAVED ABRAHAM NOT ONE—NOT TWO—NOT FOUR—BUT SIX SONS!

FOUR TERSE VERSES (GENESIS 25:1-4) GIVE SHORT SHIFT TO KETURAH AND HER SONS:

ZIMRAM, JOKSHAN, MEDAN,
MIDIAN (FOUNDER OF THE MIDIANITE NATION)
ISHBAK, AND SHUAH.

BUT ABRAHAM, FATHER OF EIGHT SONS, LOVED BEST THE ONE OF WHOM GOD SAID, "I WILL MAKE OF HIM A GREAT NATION"; FOR, AS GENESIS 25:5 REPORTS: "ABRAHAM GAVE ALL THAT HE HAD TO ISAAC."

REFLECTIONS
ON LIFEBy Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVDBeing positive is often hard work for many

"You can write your check right here on this counter."

"Yes, I know. I was waiting until the lady got out of the way," I assured the young lady at the checkout counter.

No sooner were the words out of my mouth than I realized how negative they sounded. It seemed I was slyly expressing annoyance that the lady was taking too long to move away from the checkout counter at Whole Foods.

With a little effort, I could have said: "Yes, I know. I was just giving the lady breathing room to finish arranging her purse and grocery bag." Or I could have worded that answer in several different positive, genteel ways.

After stubbing my toe again in one of the simplest of human encounters, it became painfully obvious for the umpteenth time that, unless we are constantly on our guard, a lazy, careless mode of thinking will generate a lazy, careless mode of speaking which reeks of negative feelings.

I was too embarrassed to look toward the lady with whom I had had a few words of pleasantries. Upon later thought, I should have indeed turned back toward her and subtly corrected what seemed to be a negative remark by saying something positive about our purchasing health foods together.

The single most difficult thing we attempt to do, communication, and especially positive communication, is usually very faulty because we are so lackadaisical and slipshod about formulating our thoughts and words.

If this sounds familiar, I have said it numerous times and will continue to say it.

We often hear that the price of peace is eternal vigilance. Well, that slogan could easily be reformulated to read: "The price of peace, of communication and of anything extremely difficult to come by is eternal vigilance, constant awareness and painstaking effort to think ahead, to speak and act alertly."

Instead of being the ally it can and should be, familiarity is frequently the bane of awareness, alertness, clear thinking and careful speaking. "Familiarity breeds contempt," unfortunately, is more often true than not.

Taking each other for granted is the usual result of unguarded familiarity.

As we all know, the highest degree of familiarity exists in our families where spouses, parents and children, siblings and other relatives experience the raw truth of "It's a thin line between love and hate." The very intensity of intimate involvement magnifies all our flaws in life and communication.

The upshot of this hypersensitivity is a hair-trigger, sometimes knee-jerk reaction of spouses, for instance, to each other, making it dangerously easy to mis-speak or to be misunderstood because of an ill-chosen word, an errant tone of voice, a scowl, a plastic smile, troubled eyes or other body language.

People such as spouses become so accustomed to one another's creature habits, especially speaking, that they get to be adept at completing each other's sentences long before the thought is expressed. That can be very humorous and beneficial, but it can also be very bad.

Again, this is a laziness mode where we figure we have scaled the top of the communication ladder so well that we have it made, that we can operate at all times on cruise control. Alack, there is no cruise control feasible in communication. Only full alert and full throttle give us good results.

A laziness mode, such as facility in divining the next words before they exit, will produce lazy, sloppy words and lazy, sloppy images and ideas. It serves only to encourage other lazy, sloppy habits of communicating. At its easiest, communication remains the thorniest task we perform as humans.

Is it any wonder that some of the prime complaints of spouses involve communication? "We don't talk anymore." "We don't like talking, doing things together." "We don't enjoy being together." "She/he is always right and shows little respect for what I have to say and how I say it."

Ideally, people preparing for marriage should take part in an extended seminar on the nuts and bolts of meaningful, fulfilling communication.

Even more ideally, beginning in their earliest years as children, everyone should be educated and guided in the best ways and means of communication.

To some extent, the Engaged Encounter, which is being used more and more in many church parishes as an integral part of preparation for marriage, fills this lacuna in communication education by taking the couples through an intense, extensive regimen of writing intimate letters to each other.

Even such an intense weekend falls short of what should be: a constant, ongoing nurturing of communication skills from day one of our childhood by parents, family elders, teachers, counselors, evangelists and coaches.

Again, we call upon the apostle James to wrap up the hard, work and stiff challenge of positive communication: "Whoever does not fall short in speech is a perfect person, able to bridle the whole body also" (James 3:2).

The "Word" for the Week

Love

Excitement-seeking worship

We live in a bungee-jumping, laser-lit, high-tech, sports-crazed, adrenaline-driven society. With all our push for more leisure time, there is an even greater drive for more and more excitement.

Relaxation is out. Stimulating those nerve endings and emotions is in.

There are a couple of profound results. For one thing, old-fashioned Christian worship is on the decline. It is boring.

What do you mean sit around singing placid hymns and songs, reading the Bible and listening to sermons?

Give me a break. Better yet, give me some entertainment. Give me some music that gets the adrenaline pumping. Tell me some stories that excite me.

Old-fashioned religion too often makes me feel bad. I want to feel good all over more than anywhere else. Isn't main-line Christian worship passe?

Then too, rest, relaxation, reading and contemplation are out. Being quiet is a lost art. The Christian day of rest is also lost.

We do not have time to contemplate the eternal, read the Bible, pray with our children, or enjoy the simple things of life.

Yet most folks complain of stress-filled lives. Our jobs are pressure cookers during the week. We pressure ourselves on the weekends.

We have to get the work done around the house so we can go to the ball game. We worship excitement.

St. Stanislaus raises funds for Bishop Perry Middle School

Teachers and students at St. Stanislaus College recently raised more than $1,000 to benefit the Bishop Perry Middle School in New Orleans, according to Brother Ronald Hingle, SC, principal.

St. Stanislaus hosted a basketball game and a cook-out with the proceeds going to Bishop Perry Middle School. The total funds raised were $1,187.

Bishop Perry Middle School's mission is to offer quality education in a prep-school atmosphere to economically disadvantaged children of at least average ability. Its approach is to envelop its students in a warm, intimate, congenial environment that is utterly structured and rigid.

There is no tuition charged and Bishop Perry graduates can receive financial assistance to local parochial or private high schools.

Speakerheading the SSC fund raising were Head Basketball Coach Jay Ladner, Religion Department Chairman

Brock Rock, and faculty member Matt McKiernan.

Coach Jay Ladner explained his involvement: "After I was contacted by Mr. John Fitzmorris, former SSC faculty member and current principal of Bishop Perry Middle School, I felt compelled to help the school. They are truly doing the work of the church. It is a great institution, and I am very happy that we at SSC were able to be of assistance. We should all do as much as possible to help the disadvantaged."

Boxing at Casino Magic – sponsored by actor John Goodman's wife's company

Casino Magic Bay St. Louis, in conjunction with Kingfish Boxing Productions, a new company formed by Anna Beth Goodman, wife of actor, John Goodman, present live boxing at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Friday, March 1.

The main event is a MidSouth Cruiserweight Championship bout between Andrew Greeley (8-1-0 6KO's) of Monroe, Louisiana and Tipton Walker (10-3-0 4KO's) of Benton Harbor, Michigan.

Greeley is an exciting fighter with good punching power in both hands. Greeley has posted five first-round knockouts in eight career bouts since turning pro at age 19 in July 2000.

He finished his rookie campaign 2-0, with two first-round KO's. In a start on Nov. 3 from Monroe, La., the 20-year-old floored Ron Stringer in the opening stanza. The bout at Casino Magic should prove to be a real slugfest.

Walker is a former Michigan Golden Gloves Champion. At 6'3", 190 lbs. Competing in the Cruiserweight division, Walker is determined to make a name for himself.

Walker made his professional debut at the Laporte Civic Auditorium, knocking out Eric Crumble in the first round. He then went on to win his second professional bout by defeating Pedro Rodriguez in a very tough four-round decision. Walker followed his second win with a KO over Gerald Moore in the first round.

He has also made a third appearance at the Laporte Civic Auditorium, against Donnie Pendleton on March 24, winning a four-round decision.

In April 2000, Walker lost a tough decision to Larry Banks of Las Vegas.

It was a close, well-fought fight in which Banks came out on top on two of the three judges' scorecards. Everybody in the arena thought Walker won the bout, including the referee who raised Walker's hand by mistake.

Walker would like to avenge that first loss, but he simply soon grew out of the Super Middleweight division and into the Light Heavyweight Division.

His trainer thinks it's only a matter of time before he will be a full-fledged heavyweight, but for the time being, he will compete in the Cruiserweight Division. His only loss in this division came at the hands of Chicago's Vince Durham, in Chicago on a very controversial split decision.

A rematch was quickly scheduled in neutral territory and Walker won in a unanimous decision.

Another great bout will be Indiana Light Heavyweight Champion, Nicholas Cook (9-0-0 4KO's) of Laporte, Indiana versus Dennis Mathews of Houston, Texas.

Cook turned professional January 15, 2000. His first year of boxing has landed him the title. He is undefeated in nine professional bouts. One of his greatest accomplishments as an amateur was winning the 1998 Chicago Golden Gloves, beating one of the country's outstanding amateur fighters.

Cook was recently quoted in his hometown newspaper as being excited about the fight at Casino Magic, in part, because of its location. He doesn't want to be known as a "hometown fighter or a club boxer used to sell a few extra tickets."

"We need to get away and get used to different environments, so when the big dance comes, we'll be ready," he said.

The card also includes Heavyweight, Preston "Bogalusa Boogieman" Hartzog, (2-0-0 1KO) of Bogalusa, Louisiana versus Tony Adams of Pascagoula.

The power-punching Hartzog is formerly, All Army All Service Champion and a Silver Medal winner in the CISM (Conseil International du Sport Militaire) World Military Games in Croatia, in 1997. He is the former Louisiana Golden Gloves Champion and is the brother of Anna Beth Goodman.

Goodman has opened the Kingfish Boxing Club in New Orleans with Head Trainer Esteban Garcia, former trainer of 15 world champions, including Roberto Duran, Alexis Arguello, and Hector "Macho" Camacho.

Boxing fans will be pleased, as the night promises a total of six exciting, well-matched bouts. Locals will also enjoy commentary by the master of ceremonies, New Orleans' own Ronnie Virgets.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. with the first bout beginning at 7 p.m. All bouts subject to change. Must be at least 21 years of age to attend.

Book review: Great Gulf Coast Sails, Trails and Rails

By Dan Ellis

In keeping with his program of lauding local legacies, this is the 12th book of historical significance published by Dan Ellis. "The Great Gulf Coast – Sails, Trails and Rails" is exactly as its name states. It is the elucidation of coastal transportation from early times to the present.

With the exception of air travel, Ellis's chronicles begin with describing the water vessels that traveled the lakes, bayous, and the Mississippi Sound.

In this regard, he unfolds the colonial periods of domination by the French, British, and Spanish. And the flags honoring those nations went through serial changes until 1811, when the first American banner was raised displaying 15 stars and stripes.

This flag was presented by Dr. William Flood as he commanded his schooner, the Alligator, in making several stopovers along the Coast.

Mississippi went from being a territory to statehood – and its early first settlers experienced the Great Migration and the establishment of the Antebellum era.

With the influx of new people, the early coastal towns and cities were primarily engaged in farming, fishing, lumbering, and ship building.

As New Orleans and inland plantations became attracted to the health benefits and exotic charm of the Gulf Coast, each of the coastal villages began vying against each other in attracting the rich Louisiana planters and businessmen.

Health resorts developed into famed "Watering Places" as grandiose hotels were built to accommodate and entertain the Cream of Southern Society.

Meanwhile, trails had been cut through the forests and marsh lands, first for the mail run, and later as farm-to-market roads. At the crossings of bayous and rivers, ferry stations were constructed.

The first major rail lines were built following the Civil War. In October 1870, two trains met at Chef Menteur Pass, one from New Orleans – the other from Mobile, in celebrating the 139-mile east-west line predecessor to the L&N.

now the CSX.

In October 1883, the first train along the northeastern line arrived at New Orleans from Meridian, Mississippi.

By 1901, the second railroad line running north and south, the Gulf and Ship Island, was opened beginning from the new village of Gulfport to Hattiesburg and on to Jackson, Mississippi.

Throughout the book can be found photos of streets, ferries, early automobiles, seawalls, train engines, depots, old hotels, and maps showing waterways, roadways, and railways.

The development of trolleys and streetcars are graphically shown and described as each of the coastal cities are unfolded through the 1800s, to the 1900s, and to the current period.

A special section is devoted to the significant problems, railroad operations, train wrecks and safety, track relocation, federal and state proposals, the Amtrak system, and the future of high-speed trains.

The book sells for $20 at Bookends and Hillyer House.
